AKUBRAS WELCOME AT OUTBACK TRAVEL SHOW!

Dust off your Akubras, moleskins and Blundstones - the Global Gypsies Outback Travel Show is coming to town!

The Outback Travel Show will take place at Murdoch University on the evening of Tuesday, November 8, and will be presented by Global Gypsies Directors Jeremy Perks and Jan Barrie.

The free two-hour presentation will cover a wide range of remote area travel topics including tour planning, safety, the tag-along-tour concept, four-wheel-driving tips, great places to visit, fabulous photos...there will even be a bush poet reciting some of Australian's favourite traditional verses!

Global Gypsies are well placed to host such an event – they've been leading self-drive 4WD tours through the outback for 14 years and are finalists in this year's Tourism Council Awards in both the Adventure Tourism and Training categories.

The event will kick off with well known bush poet John Hayes who'll set the atmosphere for a fascinating evening of outback information. Then Jan and Jeremy will deliver a show-and-tell presentation and provide a number of handouts which will be invaluable to anyone planning an outback adventure.

The gypsies will also announce their 2012 tours calendar and launch their unique "Outback Skills Training Course" – a specially designed one-day session for city slickers keen to learn basic bush mechanics and basic bush survival skills.

Light refreshments will be served at the end of the show and one lucky person will win a free 4WD training course worth $275.

Numbers are limited and bookings are essential.
